COMMUNITY DRIVEN

As the local health plan of choice, Health Plan of San Joaquin (HPSJ) provides healthcare value and advance wellness through community partnerships. This means more than just having a physical presence. For more than 20 years, we have supported not only the health of our members, but also the health of our community.

One of the ways that we seek to improve the health of our community is by retaining talented professionals. We've invested in the education of students who live in San Joaquin and Stanislaus Counties and are pursuing careers in the medical and healthcare fields.

In 2009, Health Plan of San Joaquin noticed the challenges in the Central Valley regarding:

- Provider capacity
- Access to care
- A limited number of new clinicians coming into the region

In response to this disparity, Health Plan of San Joaquin launched the Health Careers Scholarship Program to award $2,500 to graduating high school seniors who showed an interest in pursuing a higher education toward a medical career in the Central Valley.

Health Plan of San Joaquin will award $2,500 scholarships to two (2) students at each of the partnering schools or programs.

Working directly with seven health focused partners, Health Plan of San Joaquin's Health Careers Scholarship Program applications are available to candidates attending or participating in one of the following:

San Joaquin County

- San Joaquin Delta College Nursing Program
- Decision Medicine A Program Of The San Joaquin Medical Society
- Health Careers Academy High School
- University of the Pacific, Thomas J. Long School of Pharmacy

Stanislaus County

- Grace Davis High School Health Careers Academy
- Modesto Junior College Nursing Program
- California State University, Stanislaus School of Nursing

ELIGIBILITY

The program is open to high school seniors and full-time (minimum of 12 units), first-year college students enrolled with one of the partners listed above.

Students applying for the program must:

- Have attended a local high school
- Demonstrate a strong motivation to pursue a medical or healthcare profession in San Joaquin or Stanislaus Counties
- Show academic excellence
- Have a passion for community service

In addition, students who demonstrate a need for financial assistance will be given special consideration.

The deadline to submit your completed application is Monday, March 19, 2018.

In 2016 Health Plan of San Joaquin added a mentorship component that scholarship awardees must participate in. The mentorship component complements the Health Careers Scholarship Program by pairing each Health Career Scholar with an experienced professional.

Program mentors will offer awardees academic support, one-on-one interaction, professional development, guidance and educational resources. Mentors will empower awardees so that they succeed in their respective college programs and stay on-track until graduation and into their health-oriented career.
